The subject is the same, although it relates to a transaction to which two corporations are parties, one of which only is named in the title of been conferred on the city of Covington would fall within the constitutional prohibition, and be clearly null and void. But as it is restricted in its operation to matters pertaining to the bridge company, and the provisions of the Act, so far as they relate to the city of Covington, are apposite to the pur-pose which was intended to be effected by its passage, and are sufficiently indicated in its title, it is not liable to this constitutional objection. It was certainly not necessary for the Legislature to pass two separate Acts to effect the object it had in view-one to enable the company to sell the stock to the city, and another to enable the city to subcribe and pay for it. The constitutional provision must receive a rational construction, and not one that would lead to such an unnecessary and absurd result." (2 Neb., 219.)

> The authority to create a bonded deb is subject to no restriction or condition whatever save that such debt shall not exceed the sum of $300,000, and the law authorizing it shall provide for its payment within twenty years by taxation. The Constitution nowhere declares the necessity which shall exist as prerequisite to the issuance of bonds or the making of a loan under this section. nor the use to which money obtained by such loan shall be applied. From the language employed by the instrument itself, as well as from the debate in the convention upon these portions of the Constitution relating to State finances the object in anthorizing a bonded inlebtedness was to enable the State to maintain its business upon a cash basis, notwithstanding financial exigencies, limitation as to amount. The next objection is that the Act contemplates an indebtedness in excess of that authorized by the Constitution. Under Section 7 of Article 17 of the Constitution the State was required to assume all debts and liabilities of the Territory of Nevada unpaid at the time of the admission of the State into the Union, but it was provided that such assumption should not prevent the State from incurring the $300,000 indebtedness as provided in Section 3 of Article 9, already mentioned. At the session of 1871 the Legislature determined the Territorial indebtedness to be $380,000, for which amount a loan, per cent. per annum, payable in fifteen years, was by anthority of law negoti ated. The second objection to the validity of the Act of t tucky, under a similar constitutional of the Act arises under Section 2 and 3 provided for by this Act. But this poporousion, that an Act entitled "An of Article 9 of the Constitution. By Act to amend the Charter of the Cincinnati and Covington Bridge Company," Section 2 the Legislature is required to an annual tax sufficient to an annual tax sufficient to an annual tax sufficient to and the $380,000 bond, now in the defray the estimated expenses of the School Fund, issued, did not extinguish State for each fiscal year, and in case the Territorial indebtedness. eleventh section of the Act directs a transfer of the moneys of the School Fund to another fund and for another of the Constitution, the proceeds of the State by the General Government, as well as moneys received from other sources, are solemnly pledged for edncational purposes, and required to be other use. This fund the Legislature is commanded to invest in "United States bonds or the bonds of this State," and the interest only of the capital of the fund shall be used for Lumber and Wood educational purposes.

In this behalf it is urged that the issuance of the bonds provided for in this Act is an evasion of the investment directed by the Constitution; that the Constitution contemplates the purchase of bonds existing at the time of the passage of the enactment authorizing

This objection is without force. It is manifest that the bonds provided for by this Act are as much the bonds of the State as if they had been outstanding at the time of the passage of the Act, and were thereafter to be purchased for the benefit of the School Fund. The Legislature primarily directs the investment of the moneys in this fund. and so long as it complies with the directions of the Constitution, and makes the loan upon the securities required by that instrument, the loan will be valid. A discretionary power is conferred to invest the fund either in Government, and any attempt on the part of courts to supervise such discretion would be an invasion of the authority of the Legislature.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Lieutenant Governor Tabor of Colorado, is said to have been in 1878 only the proprietor of a small supply store, such as is usually found in mining camps. He provided two men with food and outfit for a prospecting tour around Leadville, stipulating to have a certain interest in any claim they might find. They soon discovered what was named later the Little Pittsburg mine, and Mr. Tabor's profit from that venture alone amounted to a large fortune. Since then he has been still more successful in mining operations and his wealth is estimated at several millions.

Comet Been Deceiving Earthly Admirers.

It would seem from the following paragraph from the Cincinnati Enquirer, of July 7th, that the comet at which we have all been staring for the past month is either a double one or two traveling side by side:

"About ten o'clock last night at the Cincinnati Observatory, Prof. C. C. Wilson, the assistant of Professor Ormond Stone, was startled by the altered condition of the comet. He He discovered that a jet had been thrown out, which was separated from the nucleus by a thin, dark line. Professor Wilson at once notified Professer Stone of the wonderful phenome-non, and together they ran to the tel-escope. This jet gradually formed into a nucleus, and it was not long before two comets were visible—or rather the old one was double. The new comet is ranged directly above the old one, and was not visible to the naked eye — in fact, the whole was but dimly seen."

In this, the comet now fast fading

SILVER WITH LEAD.

he Mining and Scientific Press De which we now equip our silver mines was not always sonsidered as essential. Perhaps the Mexicans set us pretty good examples in this respect. Their metallurgical appliances were very simple, some of it extremely rude. Probably the most primitive apparatus employed in any country of the extraction, by the dry way, of silver from its ores, was the truffs, a Mexican furnace, which was in principle merely a scorifier, in which the cupellation of the remaining lead is subsequently affected.

The sulphides of silver sometimes occur in so large a proportion, with regard to the gangue with which they ere associated, that if finely ground and thrown in a bath of metalic lead, kept at a proper temperature.
the silver combines with the lead,
D McFarland. mites with the silicious and earthly C Derby..... impurities of the slag, which may be readily removed from the surface of the metal before commencing cupel- C A Bragg.....

This apparatus, which is much used by the native miners of Sombrette, consists of a cupel formed of a mixture of ashes and clay, contained in a arge coarse earthen dish, enclosed between the walls of sun-dried bricks, and covered by a dome of somewhat RE Ross..... refractory clay, in which numerous holes are piercel. The whole of the interior of this arrangement is filled with charcoal, on which a blast is thrown by means of a nozzle of baked clay, and although the R L Fulton whole of the heat is applied from above the surface of the lead, it quickly meits, and the scorification of the ore, thrown on the surface, begins.

When the workman considers that the bath of lead has, by the introduction of successive additions of ore, become sufficiently charged with silver, he cleans off the silicious slags, and commences the cupellation of the resdual lead. For this purpose he makes an opening at the level of the metallic ball, for the escape of litharge, and silver alone remains at the bottom of the cupel.

Nevadans Abroad.

Of Nevadans settled at the Bay, correspondent of the Enterprise says A considerable number of Nevadans are established in business here. Among them are Lawyer Stonehill, Doctors Grant and Van Zandt. Joe Cowan has a fine undertaking establishment at 112 Geary street, in which the coffics and caskets are kept conspicuously out of sight. George Croall is foreman of the San Francisco laundry, employing 150 workmen His wife has a milinery store on Stockton street. Ex-Officer Bartlett is connected with the Nevada zaloon, corner of Kearney and Pine streets, kept by William Blackmore. W. M. Gillespie is reporting on the Chronicle and Parson Kelly on the Oakland Pribune. John I. Ginn is with his family in Oakland. Captain Stearns has wiped the dust from his feet and will return to Nevada no more. There are a host of others here whose names I have not the time to enumerate.

Miss Harney informs the GAZETTE that she expects to be successful in her efforts to aid Mr. Negley, who has been afflicted with rheumatism for years. Mr. Negley is somewhat better and will be in proper condition to move soon. It is the intention to send him to the hot springs near Wellington Station. Negley seems to be a very worthy object of charity, and Miss Harney's efforts are entirely upselfish as the afflicted man is a stranger to his benefactress. She 'deserves hearty encouragement.

The Carson Tribune is sorry to say that James Gatewood, one of Nevada's oldest citizens, is failing in health daily. Jim has owned much property in Washoe valley, but we fear is now poor man. It is to be hoped that those who knew him in his days of prosperity will see to it that he wants for nothing that money or friendship can do for him.

State Treasurer Crockett was in town last evening. He came down to on the plaintiff's attorney.

ASYLUM MACTERS.

nus Case to Be Heard To

L. L. Crockett brought down with him yesterday from Carson the answer in the Hoole mandamus case. Judge Haydon, for Hoole, has agreed that the case shall come on to-morrow, instead of Saturday. It is hoped that the case may be concluded in the two days. The testimony in the case promises to be rather long. The answer denies every essential point raised by Hoole in his complaint. The principal difference promises to be on the question of bonds, and the withdrawal of Powning and Berry. The GAZETTE gives below the bondsmen under the Citizens' bid and that offered by Hoole. Under the Citizens' bid the following bondsmen qualified in the amounts named:

FAIR MATTERS.

The Programme Soon to be Arranged A Suggestion About the Art Exhibit.

Trustee Stevenson will be in Rend on Friday night, and the trustees of the N. S. A. M. & M. S. will proceed to make final arrangements for the Fair of 1881. They declare that everything possible will be done to make the Fair attractive to all classes of visitors. C. B. McClellan, the artist, has suggested a collection of the many fine printings in this State as feature of the Pavilion cahibit. The idea is good. Mr. McClellan made s similar collection for the Pioneers in in Virginia once, and brought together attempt to make the art exhibit a feature of the coming Fair. The GA ZETTE can assure Mr. McClellan of every proper encouragement from the trustees, and hopes that he will persevere in the idea which he has sug-

Singular Attempt at Spielde

The San Francisco Post says: About half-past 7 w'cleck on the morning of July 9th an aged, gray-haired and dissolute German woman was seen to enter the water at Fillmour street wharf and deliberately walk out until the water was up to her shoulders, when she stopped, and placing a rope around her neck, tied the other end to one of the wharf piles, with the evident intention of committing spicide either by drowning or strangulation. The tide was coming in very fast, and when tempted suicide.

Music Hath Charms,

C. F. Moeller, the popular proprie of the Steamboat Springs resort, has recently purchased a Parlor Grand piano from C. J. Brookins, of Reno. It is one of the best samples of the Waters make. It will be placed in Virginia. The beauties came first from the hotel at Steamboat for the use of Moeller's guests. Moeller is a first-class landlord of a first-class hotel, * stories he ever heard.

Mrs. E.J.Brickell, who went to Hot Springs, Ark., some months ago for her health, finds the Springs very beneficial, and is now nearly cured. Mr. Brickell contemplates leaving soon for Arkansas.

The saw mills in and around Truckee are running to their fullest capacity, and have orders continually for more than they can saw.

From reliable sources their reporter nears that the grass hoppers in Sierra valley have nearly disappeared, and the crons are looking splendid.

Harry Taylor, the popular barber of Pruckee, left for Sierra valley to be gone a month.

Justice Flammer, in the Toombs Police Court, to-day, finally disposed of one of the most extraordinary cases of abandonment ever brought before a police magistrate. The complainant, who gave her name as Margaret Kuspert, applied for and obtained the arrest of Charles Kuspert, a master carpenter, whom she claimed as her husband, and who she charged had abandoned her and left her without means of support. It was shown in abandoned her and left her without means of support. It was shown in evidence that the woman had lived with Kuspert as his wife in this city for twenty years past, and hore him a large family of children, being known in the neighborhood as his wife, and believing herself to be such, although no legal marriage ceremony had been performed between them. These facts, which are generally supposed to performed between them. These facts, which are generally supposed to constitute legal marriage, were not questioned by Messra. Coulan and McCres, who appeared as counsel for Kuspert. On the contrary they admitted their truth, and proceeded to prove that Kuspert's wife, to whom he had been married years before he became accupainted with the woman who now claims him as her husband, was living at Boston, Mass., and that if any woman had just claim against him it was she. Justice Flammer said that he was reluctantly compelled him it was she. Justice Flammer said that he was reluctantly compelled to agree with the counsel, and discharged Kuspert, who left court at once. The woman who had remained faithful to him for twenty years, was carried out in a fainting condition.

This proprietor is the father of a girling of from five to six.

She had taken the habitude to each morning to give to eat to the trouts, at the aid of crumbs of bread.

These fishes were become so en-tamed that they skipped out of the water for to attrap the crumbs which the infant held in the crevice of her

At the cries emmitted by the girling the father was run himself. But what horror! He saw his infant extended without movement at the surface, where she floated as a cork.

What was not the surprise of the father in seeing that she had been supported by a mass compact of trouts. The fishes had arranged themselves under her body as to sustain her and prevent her from to drown.

A couple of "mashers" met their just deserts on Saturday evening. Two highly respectable young ladies were walking down Capitol avenue shortly after twilight unattended. They had not proceeded very far when they noticed a couple of young men following them. Both of the young fellows were gotten up in a regardless fashion with immaculate shirt fronts and lay endar pantaloons. Both, no doubt, considered then selves the observed of all observers. Soon after the young all observers. Soon after the young ladies discovered the real state of the case they quietly dropped into a grocery store and each purchased a couple of eggs. The walk was resumed, the mashers following and ogling until Masonic Hall was reached. At that point the two fellows stepped up to the ladies, and, with many protound bows, asked them if they wanted to take a promenade. Both ladies at once straightened up, and without a word each selected her man. Four eggs immediately flew with well directed aim, Each of the mashers got a mouthful, besides which the lavendar trousers, the pride of their hearts, were bespattered beyond all hope of repair. The affair happened to be witnessed by only a few people, but the dignified young men retreated in vast disorder to repair the wreck to their stunning attire. all observers. Soon after the young
